Welcome

Grow London Global are delighted to be taking 10 of London's most exciting and wide-ranging sustainability companies to Europe for this very special sustainability-focused trade mission.

We'll be exploring new opportunities, collaborations and partnerships in France and the Netherlands – 2 of the most sustainable markets in Europe, thanks to their strengths in innovation and leadership.

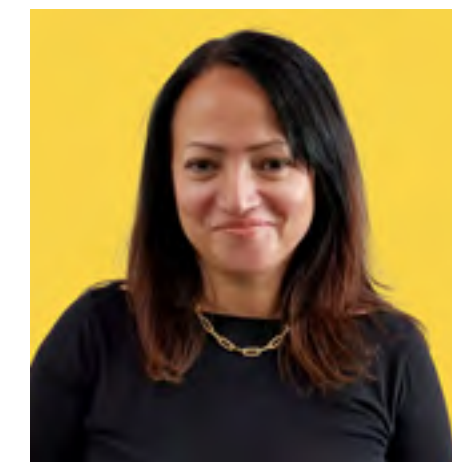

With plans for France to become a world metropolis by 2030 and a vision for Paris to become a bonafide Smart City by 2050, French innovators are turning their attention to proptech in an effort to fast-track progress. Here is where our London companies can offer their technology-fuelled solutions.

Meanwhile, the Netherlands boasts a strong economy, a thriving property industry and strong entrepreneurial spirit, making the country a key investment market.

As Europe's largest sustainability hub, London has long been a leader and innovator, when it comes to tackling the pressing issue of climate change. With London's circular economy already worth £11 billion, there's a great deal of innovation and financial power to make positive changes, working towards 2030 as the target year to achieve net-zero carbon.

In these incredibly exciting markets, we will be introducing our fantastic companies to corporates, investors, stakeholders and more, in a mission full of prospects and insights.

Here's to a successful Grow London Global trade mission, filled with new connections and partnerships.

Andy Welch
Senior Business Development
Manager

LeakSafe design leak detection systems for all types of residential, commercial properties and construction developments from apartments, student accommodation to stately homes. They are preferred suppliers for the UK's largest insurers. They don't take a "one product fits all" approach to leak detection, but instead design systems that suit each individual project and the way it is used by its owners. Their systems can be fitted during construction or refurbishment, or discreetly retrofitted.
